Emett spent his college years working behind the bar at the Chestnut Hill and Commonwealth Avenue stores. Here, he developed a strong work ethic and a sense of fulfillment in being a part of a team.

Emett is a seasoned designer passionate about print media and editorial design. He is adaptable and collaborative, with a demonstrated history of working well under tight deadlines without sacrificing the priority for creative design solutions — independently and interdepartmentally.

Throughout his career, Emett has worked tirelessly to provide collateral for labor-focused and social justice clients in diverse sectors ranging from unions and their affiliate organizations to political actions for accessible healthcare, childcare, transportation equality, and environmental causes. He is skilled in producing work such as branded advertising campaigns, multi-page website development, magazine-style newsletters, digital and print advertisements, professional branding packages, and promotional printed collateral.
